

DBM Career Day - Composing a Cover Letter - 11.00-12.30

Hendrina Paola – Language Center University of Basel

Description

You never get a second chance to make a first impression, and cover letters are the first impression in an application. They are one of the keys that paves the way to obtaining job interviews. Composing an attractive cover letter requires you to strike the right balance between promoting your unique value to a potential employer and explicating the reasons why the company or research institute you are applying to is a perfect fit for you. This workshop is aimed at PhD candidates and Postdocs in Biomedicine who wish to train their ability to write a cover letter that complements their CV and other application documents.

Preparation

Participants with a cover letter e.g. from a former application submit it to phdclub-dbm@unibas.ch by Friday, 16.11.2018. Participants without a former cover letter prepare a rough draft and bring it along to the workshop.
